

CDN has updated its website, CDNmeasurement.com, for easy viewing across multiple digital device platforms and continues its expanded foodservice focus that is reflected on its dedicated foodservice pages.

“There are many reasons we wanted to update our website, and one of the most important was to better serve the needs of our customers,” said Shawn DiGruccio, Executive Vice President of CDN.

The new site showcases the broadest assortment of thermometers, timers and scales.

As the only company focused solely on thermometers, timers and scales, CDN is committed to providing chefs with precision equipment from the basic to the unique, including OEM work and custom branded products. You are invited to contact CDN, the specialists in measurement tools, with additional questions.

